Explosion Rips U-M Building

ANN ARBOR (AP) - An explosion shortly before midnight Monday shattered windows and a door of the University of Michigan's Institute of Science and Technology on the north campus at Ann Arbor.

There were no known injuries, although police who moved immediately to seal off the area said building custodians apparently had been in the area only moments before the blast.

The explosion was the second in recent weeks in Ann Arbor and the 19th in the Detroit area. An earlier explosion shattered the front door of an Ann Arbor office building rented by the Department of Defense.

The blast Monday night occurred in a two-story wing of a building that houses the university's Great Lakes Research Laboratory and a holography laboratory for research in three dimensional photography.

Re-Elect PHIL RUPPE To Congress ELECTION DAY, NOV. 5 (Pd. Pel. Adv. by Ruppe-for-Congress Committee; Chesier Reault, Secy.

Escanaba Daily Press

Jean Worth, Editor

Ralph S. Kaziateck, General Manager Proposal No. 3

It will be too late for voters on Nov. 5 to study the proposals on the ballot in the polling booth. They should take a decision on the issue with them to the polls.

This editorial is about Proposal No. 3 on the

It would authorize the State of Michigan to issue general obligation bonds in the amount of $335 million to help finance a pure water program in the state.

The planners of the issue (The Michigan Department of Conservation) say that the present prospect is that the bond issue can meet its interest charges and principal payments without any new taxes. This may be the prospect at the state and federal levels, (the state planners are talking about the state level), but it is not necessarily the prospect of the local level, where sewer and water works project sponsors must raise some money to match state and federal grants. In the case of Escanaba, for instance, the present water usage tax could be used to finance this work, but it might have to be increased.

(The pure water bonding is a companion measure to the Conservation Department's other state bonding proposal, No. 4 on the ballot, which would authorize $100 million in bonds for a state outdoor recreational development program. It would provide coho hatcheries, acquire land for parks, forests and wildlife areas, etc.)

Former State Representative Einar Erlandsen of Escanaba, who is seeking re-election on Nov. 5, has announced opposition to Proposal No. 3. He believes that if the State Legislature appropriates money for the program each year until it is completed, the interest charges can be saved. This saving over the 30 years of the bond retirement, he suggests, would spare Michigan's taxpayers $522 million.

Michigan's financial officers reject the Erlandsen view and say that it would cost Michigan taxpayers more eventually for public works to assure pollution abatement in public waters if the work were done on a pay-as-you go basis than if there is a crash program now financed with bonds. And they add that not only will it be more expensive, it won't be as effective, because the pollution process is already at work and increasing and there's need to cope with it massively.

The state is confident that it can sell the pure water program bonds for a 4 per cent interest charge or less. This would mean a repayment cost, interest and principal, over the 30 years of the $335 million water bond issue, of $581,191,500 and of the $100 million recreation highly skilled men were di- backup it deserves. There is program issue of $173,490,000.

This total would be $754,681,500 as lated by the Michigan State Treasury Department. This means a cost of $319.6 million in interest, not $522 million.

It's still sazeable, of course, but the voter should not oversimplify the issue, as Erlandsen appears to have done.

Our concerns should be:

First, that the programs are needed. The state makes a very convincing case for this and Erlandsen does not oppose the programs, only the proposed method of paying for them.

Second, that the ultimate cost of the programs be as economical as possible. * * *

The state says that the cost of construction of the kind contemplated for the water program (sewers, water plants and sewage treatment plants) is increasing at the rate of 4 per cent a year. And that the land (much of it waterfront land) needed for the recreation program is becoming increasingly difficult to buy and increasing in price at the rate of 10 per cent a

It doesn't take long at these rates to more than compensate for the 4 per cent interest charge on the bond funds. This is why the state urges bonding and why this newspaper also encourages a "Yes" vote on these proposals.

We must end water pollution. We should end it as quickly as possible.

This program will create a huge remedy. The election asks us if we wish to participate in a Local-State-Federal program of huge benefit. We surely should and the way to do it is to vote "Yes" on proposals 3 and 4 on Nov. 5.

The opposition suggests that the bonding will increase pressure for new taxes, but failure to do this now can only defer and increase the cost of a necessary program.

Second Rank

Space exploration, once the glamorpuss of the national budget for which no expense was too great, is now an unloved stepchild grudgingly given a maintenance allowance and barely tolerated.

For millions of Americans, the $25-billionplus U. S. effort to land two men on the moon epitomizes the disordered values of men on earth.

However, James E. Webb, just-retired head of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, made some valedictory remarks on that subject that bear repeating.

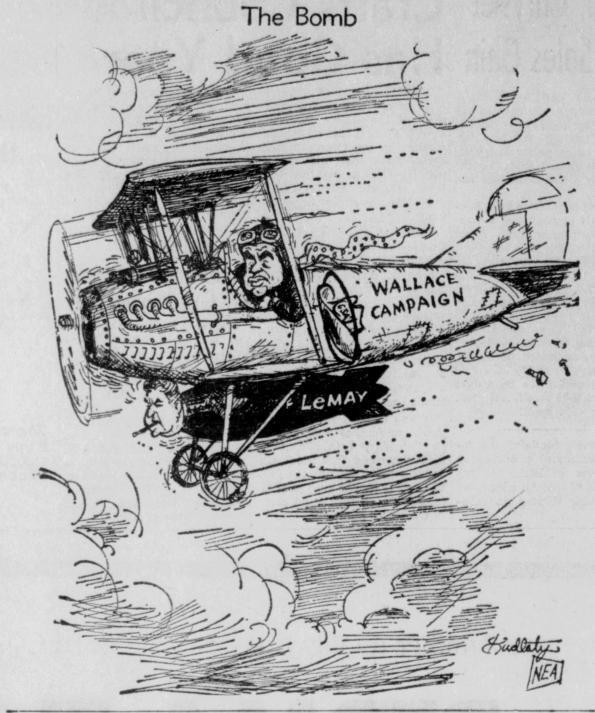

As a world power, the United States had no choice but to enter the race to the moon, said Webb. He is sure that if Richard Nixon had been elected in 1960 instead of John Kennedy, he would have proclaimed the same goal. He does not think the nation will ever regret it.

Webb, who headed "e 10-year-old space agency for nearly eight years, believes that one of the most important "spin-offs" of the moon effort will be to teach the nation how to organize its talents and resources to solve the complex urban problems facing it.

Unless we move into space, warns Webb, we surrender the field to the Russians. We will not be there when the great decisions affecting us and the rest of the world are made.

At present budgeting levels, however, the launching of planetary probes and deep-space exploration in the early 1970s will be left to the almost exclusive domain of the U.S.S.R.

For the advantages of expenditure reduction, the United States is accepting "for a long time, perhaps for the indefinite future," the disadvantages of a second-rate position in space, says Webb.

Outside Chance To 'Win' Moon Race

By RAY CROMLEY

WASHINGTON - (NEA) -It is just possible that the Apollo fire of January, 1967, which took the lives of three eight times each time you come astronauts may have cost the United States first place in the race for the moon.

As a result of that dreadful fire, 6,000 design changes were made in the Apollo. All were intended to increase the safe-

This shift in the Apollo and in program priorities, however necessary, by minimum estimate has cost the United States upwards of six months in the moon race.

It certainly cost this country first place in the attempt to circle the moon and return. Work on that part of the program was one of the tasks not speeded up on schedule.

In a very real sense, a project as complicated and as lengthy as the moon program is a prisoner of decisions made early in the game. Once these decisions are incorporated into the project, it becomes very costly and time-consuming to make major changes.

Having been somewhat careless in building an Apollo with a highly inflammable pure oxygen atmosphere in the first place, there are signs that the National Aeronautics and Space Administration may have overreacted. So some careful space scientists believe.

Despite the latest Russian moon success, which no one here downgrades as an example of high technical efficiency, the thinking in the scientific community here is still that the United States is slightly ahead of the Russians over-all in the technical requirements of the

Some knowledgeable scienists believe, in fact, that even as things now stand, the United States could almost certainly win the race to the moon, despite the delay already caused by the Apollo fire, if it weren't for the lack of confidence and perhaps overcaution the fire has created in the minds of NASA management.

This extra cautiousness will almost inevitably affect all decisions from here on out, even after the Apollo safety corrections have long been com-

Speaking to United Press International editors, Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey declared, "I shall be a peace presi-fits. dent if elected." That is a promise. How much are the Democrat's promises of peace worth? In 1916, when urged to enter World War I President Woodrow Wilson said, "I am too proud to fight." In the presidential election of that year President Wilson won the election on the Democrats' slogan: "He kept us out of war." Wilson was inaugurated for a second term on March 4, 1917. On April 2, 1917 President Wilson called upon Congress "To declare the present course of Germany to be in fact nothing less than war against the government of the United States."

Four days later, April 6, the war resolution was passed by the Congress with a few dissenting votes, 50 in the House of Representatives and 6 in the Senate. President Wilson was a master in the use of the English language, and in his war message on April 2 he stated, "The world must be made safe for democracy." So millions of American men went forth, laying their lives on the line "to make the world safe for democracy" . . . "in a war to end war."

* * * Twenty - three years later, President Franklin D. Roosevelt gave a solemn promise to the country. Speaking at Boston on Oct. 30 he said, "And while I am talking to you mothers and fathers, I give you one more assurance. I have said this before, but I shall say it again, and again and again. Your boys are not going to be sent into any foreign wars. They are training to create a force so strong, that by its very existence, it will keep the threat of war from our

The purpose of our defense is defense." This statement was pure rhetoric. The circumstances surrounding the Japanese successful attack upon Pearl Harbor have never been explained, but Pearl Harbor gave President Roosevelt the one incident which he needed to bring the United States into World War II which he had been itching to do for more than a year.

Twenty-four years later in the presidential campaign of 1964 President L. B. Johnson was saying: "We do not propose to send American boys, 9,000 miles to fight battles which the S. Vietnamese boys should fight." To win the presidency the Democrats pictured the Republican candidate as being willing and ready to incinerate little girls picking daisies with the nuclear bomb. They also scared the living daylights out of the senior

* * * The general public, being suckers, industrialists, newsmen, ministers, priests and many others who should have known better, believed these falsehoods and went all out to elect LBJ and he won the election by a landslide. Just a few months later American men began to fight and to die in the rice paddies and jungles of S. After more than five years of fighting this undeclared war, America has suffered more than 28,000 dead and hundreds of thousands wounded, and the nation has poured out its substance in a vain attempt to save a nation which seemingly does not wish to be saved. Even as I write there are rumors that a coup to overthrow the government is in progress.

Now Vice President Hubert Humphrey, seeking the presidency is going about this nation smearing the opposition, and declaring, "I shall be a peace president if elected." Well, the credibility gap being what it is in this present administration, and the Vice President being a member of this administration, I may be excused if I accept his word with a grain or two of salt. "By thy words shalt thou be justified, and by thy words shalt thou be condemned," said the Man of Galilee.

Win At Bridge

By JACOBY & SON

The weak two bid is in almost universal use in tournament play. The American Contract Bridge League has ruled that the weak two bid may only be made with a high card holding of not less than six or more than 12 points. Most users reduce these limits to a maximum of 11 and minimum of eight and, in addition, only bid it with a good six-card

There is a further restriction. They use the two-club opening as their only forcing bid. In any event, Count Wright's two-diamond call is a typical weak two. He has nine high-card points and a good six-card suit.

This hand was played at the Mid-South Regional in Shreveport and Jim Clinton, who sat North, was tempted to go to two spades. He and Count were playing that the only forcing response to a weak two bid would be two no-trump and Jim could expect to play two spades. Duplicate players always try, if possible, to get into majors or no-trump because in duplicate 10 or 20 points can mean a difference between a good score and a bad one.

He didn't fall for this temptation, and passed quietly. While plus 10 would be better than plus 90, a two-spade call was too likely to lead to a minus score

West opened the six of hearts. Count let this run around to his nine. Then he cashed dummy's ace of diamonds, returned to his own hand with the ace of spades, played his king and nine of diamonds and wound up with nine tricks for a nice, comfortable plus.

It was, in fact, more than comfortable. The game was team of four and at the other table North chose to respond with two spades. He played it there and alert defense managed to set him two tricks at this contract.

Soul Medicine

WILBERFORCE, Ohio (AP) - Soprano Leontyne Price, a 1948 graduate of Central State University, was awarded that school's first honorary degree by the university's president, Dr. Herman Branson.

In conferring the degree Saturday, Branson said he was awarding Miss Price a doctor of medicine degree. He quickly corrected himself, said it was a doctorate of music, then recovered by saying that her singing is "medicine to the soul."

Inherit Alcoholism? Husband Is Example

insisting that alcoholism is an illness. I know for a fact you are wrong. Alcoholism is no illness, it is hereditary. The family I married into is living

I knew when I married Jim that he had a drinking problem but I didn't know he would take gin in a hot water bottle to the hospital when he had his gall bladder out. Jim's father has not drawn a sober breath since I met him 21 years ago. His mother has not uttered a coherent sentence in the last 15 years. Jim has three brothers and two sisters. The only one in the crowd who doesn't drink is a sister who is a religious nut and I think a few drinks might improve her personality a lot.

I won't go into uncles and aunts, but at every family wedding or birthday party all they do is drink. Nobody eats. They have to call the fire department to come get the food because they hate to throw it

This bunch is living proof that alcoholism is hereditary. It's not possible that everybody in Jim's family caught the same illness. I hope you will be big enough to admit you are wrong and I'm right.-DON'T TOUCH THE STUFF MYSELF

Dear Stuff: The experts agree that a tendency toward alcoholism may be hereditary, but alcoholism is not inherited like crooked teeth or lovingcup ears. It so happens that your husband's clan is loaded with emotional problems and they all chose the same escape hatch-booze.

Dear Ann Landers: A bouquet of onions to you for the advice you gave to that poor kid who had a baby out of wedlock and asked if it would be all right to get married in a white wedding gown and have her 3-year-old daughter as a flower girl.

Just because Bella made a little mistake is no reason she should pay for it for the rest of her life, is it? Why should she hide her head in the sand like an ostrich? Everyone throughout Delta County. The knows what happened. Bella takes her child everywhere and calls herself Miss Jones. I think five-county Central Upper Pethis takes a lot of courage, and she is to be admired.

Now that Bella has a chance

Dear Ann Landers: You keep to marry a nice fellow, why should she have the dream of her life spoiled? This unfortunate girl has always wanted a lovely white wedding, with orange blossoms and everything. You were mean to say no and spoil a young maiden's dream.—A CLOSE FRIEND

Dear Close: A girl who has had a child out of wedlock is no maiden-so forget about "spoiling her dream." If she allows her child to be the flower girl at her wedding she will be the subject of richly deserved ridicule. I hope somebody can talk her into wearing a pink silk suit-in the pastor's study.

Dear Ann Landers: Before a woman marries (second time for both) does she have the right to know how much money the man earns, how much he has in the bank, how much he has in stocks, bonds and real estate, and how much insurance he carries? When a certain lady asked me these questions, I said, "Doesn't character count?" She replied, "Yes, but I can learn that from your behavior." What do you say about this matter, Ann? - WARY

Dear Wally: I say a woman has the right to know the answers to those questions before she marries. The divorce courts are loaded with people who married first and asked later.

Kelvinator To Cut Work Force

GRAND RAPIDS (AP) Kelvinator, Inc., announced today it plans to reduce its local work force of 3,500 by an estimated 20 per cent next month due to the loss of a Norge appliance contract.

TWO STORM WINDOWS, 28 x 28 glass. New 9 ft. metal garage door. Denning water pump, 12 gal. crock. Call GA 5-5525.

The announcement was made by David Jones Jr., Kelvinator president, who explained that Norge was purchased last summer by Fedders Corp., which now plans to build its own 90 refrigerators at the Fedder plant in Edison, N. J.

The labor cutback could result in as many as 700 workers being laid off, both hourly rated and salaried, beginning Nov. 1, Jones said.

Kelvinator also has lost some of the auto parts work it had We been doing for its former corporate partner, American Motors. The auto firm shifted some metal work to its Wisconsin auto plants in Kenosha and Milwaukee.
